Kate interviews Joanna Grochowicz

Joanna Grochowicz's narrative non-fiction is meticulously researched and compellingly told. By fusing the real and the imagined in her stories of early Antarctic exploration, she reveals the human aspirations and tragedies that have shaped our understanding of what remains an utterly inhuman place. As an Antarctic writer and communicator, Joanna believes strongly that engaging with Antarctic history encourages a deeper connection with a globally significant continent that few will ever visit. While focusing on polar exploration, her ever-popular school sessions guide students in examining the continued importance of resilience, perseverance and curiosity in all human endeavours.

Joanna's books include:

Lismore Flood Relief Spots - Emma Bowd

Emma is an internationally published Australian author; an experienced presenter; and a passionate advocate for children's literacy in disadvantaged communities. A life-long love affair with shoes has led her on an exciting and successful publishing journey, with fiction and non-fiction books for adults and children. Emma is delighted that her debut picture book Wonderful Shoes (illustrated by Tania McCartney), pays homage to all the small children of the world, who think big people's shoes are just as wonderful as she does!

Emma is both humbled and thrilled that Wonderful Shoes was named as a 2022 'Notable Book' in the Early Childhood Category, of the Book of the Year Awards, by The Children's Book Council of Australia.
