Gwynneth Jones drew all through her maths book at school, so left to study art at TAFE and then majored in Plant and Wildlife Illustration at the University of Newcastle. Since then, Gwynneth has been imagining and drawing madly, exhibiting and holding market stalls, and creating picture books.

Gwynne has illustrated 6 picture books for publisher EK Books: Don't Think

About Purple Elephants and The Great Sock Secret (text by Susan Whelan), Dance with Me (text by Penny Harrison), Patch and Ruby (text by Anouska Jones), the Chalk Rainbow (text by Deborah Kelly) and Finding Granny with text by our very own Kate Simpson.

Every two seconds, someone in the world suffers a stroke.

In Finding Granny, that someone is Edie's beloved grandmother. When Edie comes to the hospital, she is confronted by the physical changes in her grandmother: muddled words, a crooked face, a woman confined to bed.

This isn't the 'playtime, bedtime, story-time pantomime Granny' that Edie knows. "That's not my Granny," she says, as she waits outside in the corridor during her mother's visits. But when her mother takes Edie to watch one of Granny's art therapy sessions, Edie starts to understand that the Granny she loves is still there.

Finding Granny is a heart-warming story of changing relationships and the bond between children and grandparents. It's also a sensitive exploration of coping with illness and disability that will offer children much-needed comfort.
